Abstract
There is no right way, nor is there only one way to influence. We are, all of us, influenced by people, places, events and situations at all times. Sometimes we are affected more, sometimes less, but we are constantly being influenced by what happens around us. Teaching requires you to influence people just about all of the time. It may take the form of gaining support, inspiring others, persuading other people to become your champions, engaging someone's imagination and creating relationships. Whatever form it takes – leading, internal, one-to-one, Maverick – if you can get to be good at it, you will make your job easier and more interesting.
